Translating Pain Research into Clinical Care

Learning Objectives:

- To understand the background on pain as a clinical problem
- To review of what is known about “good” pain management
- To summarize ongoing applied clinical research on non-pharmacological pain management
- To connect research with actual clinical care
- To provide recommendations for pain management in non-pain clinical visits

The UT Health Science Center at San Antonio School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.
